

BOONAH - QLD

Heart of the Scenic Rim

Welcome to Boonah

The Boonah District with over 100 different types of businesses, industries and activities offers a “full service” of products, services, things to do, and places to see.

Boonah is a rural region but is the geographic center of major population areas such as the Gold Coast, Brisbane, Ipswich, Toowoomba, and Warwick as well as the northern areas of New South Wales. We are also central to other significant food production areas as well as significant natural environments and rare native species habitats. Boonah is a hub into the Green Cauldron National Landscape.

It is important to recognize the significant position that Boonah has held in the development of the State as a supplier of food initially dairying and later vegetables; as well as timber in the early years. For example, Cossart’s sawmill, which no longer exists, employed around 240 people.

Boonah is part of a “food crescent” that lies close to major population centers in South East Queensland. Its current potential role is as a significant food supplier for the future demands of food production and food security, as those issues become more relevant.

Boonah is the commercial hub of a great mix of agricultural as well as recreational resources for discerning and diverse interests and activities. The food source potential is complemented by significant natural environment as well as built environment to suit new and emerging technologies and ways to work across diverse industries.

We offer you a friendly place to stop and enjoy a break with street festivities to celebrate the rally visit; as well as prepare for your next trip to our town and region.

Dover and Sons was established in 1900 by Samuel Dover to serve the local community with farm machinery and later with vehicles. The firm was the local Ford dealer and sold Model T and Model A vehicles. Joe Dover still has many memories of those times and is able to recall a lot of local history about the vehicles. So, for the history buffs, Joe is able to provide a local perspective of the local use of Model A as well as Model T vehicles.

Dover and Sons welcomes the Ford Model A rally to Boonah.
